Figures for growth, timelines and prices in this document are planning estimates, not measured research. Test them against your own results and adjust.

Overview and method

A repeatable system for taking a writer, a brand, or a business CEO from zero online presence to a credible, findable, growing one in 90 days.

Use it two ways: 1. For yourself. Follow the playbook that fits. 2. As a service. Run clients through it and charge for it (see `SERVICE-OFFER.md`).

The truth up front (set this expectation with every client)

- 90 days builds credibility, not fame. Realistically: a complete, consistent profile; 300–2,000 real followers depending on platform and niche; and the first inbound opportunities (DMs, readers, leads, press asks).
- Consistency beats talent. Someone who posts 3×/week for 12 weeks beats someone who posts 20 brilliant things in week 1 and then disappears.
- One main platform, done well. New accounts spread across five platforms grow on none of them.
- Followers are a vanity number. What counts is the result: email subscribers for writers, sales and leads for brands, opportunities and pipeline for CEOs.

The 5-stage method (same for every client type)

STAGE	WEEKS	OUTPUT	FILE
1. Define	1	Who they are, who they're for, and what they want people to do	<code>templates/intake-questionnaire.md</code>
2. Position	1	One-line positioning, 3–4 content pillars, voice rules	<code>templates/positioning-worksheet.md</code>
3. Build	2	Handles claimed, profiles fully set up, link hub, first 9 posts banked before launch	<code>templates/profile-setup-checklist.md</code>
4. Show up	3–12	Posting rhythm, daily engagement block, a weekly "signature" piece	<code>templates/30-day-calendar.csv</code> + the client-type playbook
5. Measure & adjust	every 2 weeks	Keep what works, cut what doesn't	<code>templates/scorecard.md</code>

To run it: `IMPLEMENTATION.md` has the setup sprint, the weekly rhythm, and the failure modes in the order they hit. `live/` holds the kit filled in for a real subject, so you can see what "done" looks like.

Pick the playbook

CLIENT	MAIN PLATFORM	SECOND	RESULT TO TRACK	PLAYBOOK
Writer (author, journalist, poet, essayist)	Substack / newsletter + Instagram or Threads	TikTok (fiction) or X/LinkedIn (non-fiction)	Email subscribers	<code>playbooks/writer.md</code>

CLIENT	MAIN PLATFORM	SECOND	RESULT TO TRACK	PLAYBOOK
Brand (product, shop, consumer business)	Instagram + TikTok (same videos on both)	Pinterest (visual products) / Facebook (local)	Website visits → sales	playbooks/brand.md
Business CEO (founder, executive, consultant)	LinkedIn	X or a newsletter	Inbound opportunities (calls, deals, hires, press)	playbooks/ceo.md

The non-negotiables (every client, every platform)

1. Same name and handle everywhere. Claim it even on platforms you won't use yet.
2. A face, or a mark that never changes. People follow people. Brands get a logo; writers and CEOs get a real, recent, well-lit photo.
3. A bio that answers three questions: who you are, who you help or what you make, and why someone should follow.
4. One link to a link hub or a page you own, never a dead end.
5. 9 posts in the bank before you announce anything, so new visitors see a living profile.
6. 30 minutes a day of engagement. Commenting on others matters as much as your own posting, and in the first 60 days it matters more.
7. Own the audience. Push followers to an email list. Platforms change their rules; an email list doesn't.

How to implement it

The playbooks say what to do. This says when, in what order, and what to do on a Tuesday when you don't feel like it.

Two phases: a setup sprint (about 6 hours, spread over two weeks) and then a weekly rhythm (3–5 hours) that you repeat until it's a habit.

Phase 1 — Setup sprint (weeks 1–2, ~6 hours total)

Do these in order. Each one depends on the one before it, and skipping ahead to posting is the single most common way this fails.

#	TASK	TIME	DONE WHEN
1	Fill <code>templates/intake-questionnaire.md</code> on yourself	45 min	Every bold question has an answer
2	Fill <code>templates/positioning-worksheet.md</code>	60 min	The one-liner passes the test: a competitor can't say it too
3	Claim handles everywhere; turn on 2FA	30 min	Same handle on LinkedIn, X, Instagram, TikTok, Substack
4	Photo + banner	60 min	A recent, well-lit head-and-shoulders photo. Phone is fine, window light, plain wall
5	Write the profile from the worksheet	60 min	Headline, About, Featured, contact line all live
6	Write 9 posts before announcing anything	120 min	9 drafts in a doc, 3 scheduled
7	Pick your 20 target accounts	30 min	A list of 20 people you want to be known by

Hard rule: don't announce until step 6 is done. A new visitor who finds an empty profile does not come back. Nine posts is what makes the profile look alive.

The photo is not optional, and it's where people stall

You don't need a photographer. Stand facing a window, not with your back to it. Plain wall behind you. Phone on a shelf at eye height, portrait mode, self-timer. Take 40, pick 1. This is 20 minutes, and a bad photo costs you more reach than any post will earn.

Phase 2 — The weekly rhythm (3–5 hours/week)

This is the whole job. Put it in your calendar as recurring blocks or it won't happen.

DAY	BLOCK	TIME	WHAT
Mon	Batch write	60 min	Write the week's 3 posts in one sitting. Pull from your pillars. Don't edit yet.
Mon	—	10 min	Edit yesterday's drafts, schedule Tue/Wed/Thu

DAY	BLOCK	TIME	WHAT
Tue	Post + engage	20 min	Post fires. Reply to every comment within the hour. Comment on 5 target accounts.
Wed	Post + engage	20 min	Same
Thu	Post + engage	20 min	Same
Fri	Outreach	30 min	One thing that compounds: pitch a podcast, message a peer, invite a collaborator
Every 2 wks	Review	20 min	Fill <code>templates/scorecard.md</code> . Decide one change.

Total: ~3 hrs/week, with the Friday block being the first thing to drop in a bad week.

The engagement block matters more than the posts

In the first 60 days, commenting on other people's posts will grow you faster than your own posts will. Your posts reach your followers; you have none yet. Comments on a big account's post reach their followers.

A good comment adds a specific example, a disagreement, or a number. "Great post!" is worse than nothing — it signals you're farming.

What "done" looks like each week

Check these three, not your follower count:

- [] Did I publish what I planned? (If no three weeks running, cut to 2 posts/week. A plan you keep beats a plan you admire.)
- [] Did I comment on 15+ posts from my target list?
- [] Did one stranger engage with me? (comment, DM, follow-and-reply)

The failure modes, in the order they'll hit you

1. Week 3: the silence. You've posted 9 times and almost nobody responded. This is normal and it is not a signal. The algorithm doesn't know who you are yet. Keep going; week 6 is where it starts to move.
2. Week 5: the drift. You skip a Monday batch, then a week. Recovery: post once, badly, immediately. Don't write an apology post about being away — just resume.
3. Week 8: the comparison. You'll see someone with 50k followers posting worse content than you. They started three years ago. Ignore it.
4. Week 10: the plateau. Growth flattens. This is when you look at the scorecard and change one thing — usually the hook, not the topic.

When to change the plan

Use the scorecard, not your mood.

SIGNAL	WHAT IT MEANS	DO THIS
Reach is fine, no link clicks	The content works, the ask doesn't	Rewrite the bio and the call to action
No reach at all after 6 weeks	Hooks are weak	Rewrite only your first two lines for a month
Reach and clicks, no inbound	You're entertaining, not useful	Shift pillars toward the problems you solve
Growing but wrong audience	Positioning is off	Back to the worksheet

Your filled-in version

`live/` holds the kit filled in for a real subject. Start there — it shows what "done" looks like for each template.

Playbook: Writer

Authors, novelists, journalists, poets, essayists, ghostwriters.

The result that matters: email subscribers. Publishers, agents, and editors increasingly ask "what's your platform?" Their real question is "how many people will buy when you publish?" An email list answers that. Social media feeds the list.

1. Platform choice

WRITER TYPE	MAIN	SECOND	WHY
Fiction / romance / fantasy / YA	Instagram + TikTok (BookTok)	Substack	Readers find fiction through mood, tropes, and aesthetics
Literary fiction / poetry	Substack	Instagram or Threads	The work itself is the content; short excerpts travel
Non-fiction / business / self-help	LinkedIn or X	Substack	Ideas travel as threads and posts; expertise builds authority
Journalist / essayist	X or Bluesky + Substack	LinkedIn	Editors and sources live there

Always: Substack (or Beehiiv / Kit) as home base, plus one social platform. Add a second only after 8 consistent weeks.

2. Positioning formula

I write [genre / topic] for [specific reader] who [what they crave or care about].

Examples: - "I write slow-burn fantasy romance for readers who want the yearning and the politics." - "I write about money for first-generation professionals who never got the talk at home."

3. Profile setup

Bio formulas (pick one): - [Genre] author · [hook or trope] · [credential or work-in-progress] ↓ [free thing]

Fantasy romance author · enemies-to-lovers with real stakes · Book 1 out 2027 ↓ free prologue - Writing about [topic] for [reader]. [Proof]. New essay every [day] ↓ Writing about money for first-gen professionals. Ex-banker. New essay every Sunday ↓

Link: straight to the newsletter signup, or a link hub with the newsletter first.

Lead magnet (the reason to subscribe): free first chapter, a short story set in the same world, a one-page reading list, or an essay series. Ship one before launch.

4. Content pillars (pick 3–4)

PILLAR	SHARE	EXAMPLES
The work	30%	Short excerpts, one-line hooks, cover reveal, "a line I cut from chapter 4"
The process	25%	Writing routine, word-count updates, how you research, rejection stories
The taste	25%	What you're reading, recommendations, comp titles ("if you loved X...")
The person	20%	Why you write this, your desk, your life around the work

Fiction leans more on the work and the taste. Non-fiction leans more on ideas: turn each essay into 3–5 standalone posts.

5. Rhythm (sustainable for someone who also has to write)

- Newsletter: 1×/week, or every 2 weeks at minimum. Same day every time.
- Social: 3–4 posts/week. Each newsletter issue becomes 3 social posts.
- Engagement: 20 minutes/day commenting on writers and readers in your genre. Leave real comments, not "great post!"

6. Growth moves that actually work for writers

1. Swap recommendations with 2–3 newsletter writers of similar size (Substack Recommendations are built for this).
2. Guest posts: write one piece a month for a bigger newsletter or publication in your niche.
3. Join reader communities (Goodreads groups, genre Discords, subreddits) and contribute before you promote.
4. Fiction: short videos that open with the trope or hook, not "hi, I'm an author."
5. Non-fiction: one strong opinion per post. Hedged ideas don't travel.

7. Realistic milestones

DAY	SUBSCRIBERS	MAIN PLATFORM FOLLOWERS	SIGNAL
30	50–150	150–400	Friends + early strangers
60	150–400	400–1,000	Strangers subscribing without being asked
90	300–800	700–2,000	People replying to emails = a real audience

Below these at day 60? Usually the cause is a vague positioning line or a weak lead magnet. Fix those before posting more.

8. Mistakes to avoid

- Posting only "buy my book." Aim for 1 in 5 posts as a direct ask, no more.
- Waiting until the book is out. Start 12–18 months before publication if you can.

- Copying a big author's style on a brand-new account. They're coasting on an audience they already have.

Playbook: Brand

Product companies, shops, restaurants, studios, consumer services.

The result that matters: visits that turn into sales or bookings. Followers who never click are an audience you're paying to entertain.

1. Platform choice

BRAND TYPE	MAIN	SECOND	WHY
Fashion / beauty / home / food products	Instagram + TikTok	Pinterest	Visual discovery; Pinterest traffic keeps arriving for months
Local business (café, salon, gym, clinic)	Instagram + Google Business Profile	Facebook	Local search and the neighbourhood community
B2B / services	LinkedIn company page + founder's LinkedIn	YouTube	Buyers research before they talk to sales
Digital product / app	TikTok or X	YouTube Shorts	Demos and "how I use it" content

Make one short video and post it to TikTok, Reels, and Shorts. Shoot vertical once, publish three times.

2. Positioning formula

For [specific customer] who [need or frustration], [Brand] is the [category] that [one clear difference], unlike [the usual alternative].

Then compress it into a tagline of 7 words or fewer for the bio.

3. Identity basics (needed before the first post)

ASSET	MINIMUM VIABLE VERSION
Logo	One mark that works small (avatar) and one wordmark
Colours	1 main + 1 neutral + 1 accent, with hex codes written down
Fonts	1 heading + 1 body font, used everywhere
Voice	3 "we are / we are not" pairs (e.g. warm , not cutesy)

Canva Brand Kit is enough at this stage. A full brand agency can wait until revenue justifies it.

4. Profile setup

Handle: brand name, the same everywhere (@brand , @brandhq , @shopbrand , @brand.co). Avatar: the logomark, centred, readable at 40px. Bio formula: [What you sell] for [who] · [differentiator] · [proof or location] ↓ [offer]

Small-batch hot sauce for people who want flavour, not just heat · Made in Lagos · 10% off first order ↓

Link: shop or booking page, or a link hub with "Shop" first. Highlights / pinned posts: Best-sellers · Reviews · How it's made · FAQ / Shipping.

5. Content pillars

PILLAR	SHARE	EXAMPLES
Product in use	35%	Real customers using it, before/after, "3 ways to wear or use it"
Behind the scenes	25%	How it's made, packing orders, the team, sourcing
Proof	20%	Reviews, customer reposts, press, numbers ("1,000 orders shipped")
Value / culture	20%	Tips, trends, and the lifestyle around the product, with no hard sell

6. Rhythm

- Feed / video: 3–5×/week (at least 2 short videos).
- Stories: daily, low effort. Polls, packing orders, quick questions.
- Engagement: 30 min/day. Reply to every comment in the first hour; comment on 10 customer and partner accounts.

7. Growth moves that actually work for new brands

1. Seed micro-creators: send product to 20 creators with 2k–20k followers and strong engagement. Expect roughly 1 in 4 to post. That's normal.
2. Reshare user content with credit. It's free content and it's proof.
3. Collaborate with neighbouring brands (complementary, not competing) through giveaways or joint posts.
4. Turn comments into content: answer a question with a video reply.
5. Only boost what already works: once a post outperforms organically, put $5–10/day behind it. Never pay to push a post that didn't work for free.

8. Realistic milestones

DAY	FOLLOWERS (MAIN)	MONTHLY LINK CLICKS	SIGNAL
30	200–500	50–150	Profile looks alive; first DMs
60	500–1,500	150–500	Strangers tagging the brand
90	1,000–3,000	400–1,200	Sales you can trace to social

Below these at day 60? Check in this order: photo/video quality → offer and price → audience targeting.

9. Mistakes to avoid

- Posting only polished product shots. They look like ads and get scrolled past like ads.
- Ignoring DMs. On a new account, every DM is a potential sale.
- Buying followers. It wrecks reach and credibility, and platforms detect it.

Playbook: Business CEO

Founders, executives, consultants, owner-operators.

The result that matters: inbound opportunities. Track them: sales calls, partnership asks, investor intros, strong job applicants, podcast and press invites. A CEO with 2,000 of the right followers can outperform one with 50,000 random ones.

1. Platform choice

CEO TYPE	MAIN	SECOND
B2B / services / consulting	LinkedIn	Newsletter (LinkedIn newsletter or Substack)
Tech / startup / investor-facing	LinkedIn + X	Podcast guesting
Consumer brand founder	LinkedIn (for the business) + Instagram (for the founder story)	TikTok (founder-led content)

LinkedIn is the default. Decision-makers are there, and personal profiles get far more reach than company pages.

2. Positioning formula

I help [who] [achieve what] through [how / point of view], and I share [what kind of insight] from building [company].

The best CEO accounts have a point of view, not just a job title. Find the belief they hold that some peers would disagree with. That belief is the content engine.

3. Profile setup (LinkedIn)

ELEMENT	DO THIS
Banner	Company + what you do + one proof point, or a speaking or event photo
Headline	[Role] @ [Company] · Helping [who] [outcome] · [proof] , e.g. CEO @ Acme · Helping clinics cut admin time in half · 300+ clinics
About	3 short paragraphs: what you believe → what you've built and the proof → what to contact you about. End with a clear contact line.
Featured	Company site, best post, a talk or interview, a booking link
Follow button	Where offered, make "Follow" (not "Connect") the main profile button so strangers can follow without a request
Experience	Each role gets 2–3 lines of outcomes , not duties

4. Content pillars

PILLAR	SHARE	EXAMPLES
Lessons from building	35%	"We lost our biggest client. Here's what changed." Hiring, pricing, and decisions, with real numbers where you can share them
Point of view on the industry	30%	Contrarian takes, predictions, reactions to news
Behind the company	20%	Team wins, product launches, customer stories (with permission)
The human	15%	Why you started, mistakes, routines. Vulnerable, not oversharing.

5. Rhythm (built for a busy executive)

- Posts: 3×/week (e.g. Tue / Wed / Thu mornings in the audience's time zone).
- Comments: 15 min/day of thoughtful comments on posts from peers, customers, and bigger voices in the industry. In the first 60 days, this drives more growth than posting.
- Signature piece: 1×/month, either a long post, newsletter, or short video.

The executive workflow (about 1 hr/week of their time): 1. A 30-min weekly voice note or interview, recorded with a ghostwriter or assistant. 2. The ghostwriter turns it into 3 posts in the CEO's voice. 3. The CEO approves and edits in 15 min, adding one personal detail per post. 4. The CEO does their own comments. Never outsource the comments. That's where the relationships come from.

6. Post formats that work on LinkedIn

- Hook line → story → lesson → question. The first two lines decide everything, because they appear before "... see more."
- Short, scannable lines. Write for a phone screen.
- Document/carousel posts for frameworks.
- Text-only for stories and opinions.
- Links go in the first comment, not the post body.
- No engagement-bait ("Comment YES"). It hurts credibility with exactly the people who matter.

7. Growth moves that actually work for CEOs

1. Comment strategy: pick 20 people the CEO wants to be known by (customers, peers, investors, journalists) and leave thoughtful comments on their posts every week.
2. Employee amplification: the team reshares with their own one-line take (optional, never forced).
3. Podcast guesting: 1–2 a month on niche shows. Turn each appearance into 3–5 clip posts.
4. Co-create: do a joint post or live session with a respected peer.
5. Speak: local events and industry panels, then post about them.

8. Realistic milestones

DAY	LINKEDIN FOLLOWERS (NEW)	AVG IMPRESSIONS/POST	INBOUND OPPORTUNITIES
30	+200–500	500–2,000	0–2
60	+500–1,500	1,000–5,000	2–6
90	+1,000–3,000	2,000–10,000	5–15 (log every one)

Inbound is the number to report to the CEO. Followers are just a leading indicator.

9. Mistakes to avoid

- Posting company press releases as personal posts. Nobody follows a brochure.
- A ghostwriter voice that doesn't sound like them. People who meet them notice.
- Talking about confidential numbers, clients, or employees without clearing it. One bad post costs more than 100 good ones earn.
- Starting, going silent for a month, then restarting. Pick a rhythm they can keep through a busy quarter.

Template: Intake questionnaire

Send this before the kickoff call, or run it live in 45 minutes. Don't start building until every bold question has an answer.

About them

1. Client type: Writer / Brand / CEO / other: _____
2. In one sentence, what do you do?
3. What would you like to be known for in 12 months?
4. What do people already come to you for (advice, recommendations, skills)?
5. What do you believe about your field that many peers would disagree with?

Audience

6. Who exactly should follow you? Describe one real person: role, age range, location, what they worry about.
7. Where does that person already spend time online?
8. Name 3–5 accounts your audience already follows and loves.

Goal

9. What should a follower do? (subscribe / buy / book a call / hire / invite you to speak / other)
10. What does success look like at 90 days, and at 12 months?
11. Are there deadlines (book launch, product drop, fundraiser, event)?

Assets & constraints

12. Existing accounts, handles, website, email list (with numbers)?
13. Photos and video available? Are you comfortable on camera? (yes / with practice / no)
14. Hours per week you can personally give: _____
15. Budget for tools, photos, ads, creators: _____
16. Off-limits topics (clients, numbers, family, politics, competitors)?
17. Who approves posts, and how fast can they turn things around?

Voice

18. Three words you want people to use about you or the brand:
19. Three words you never want associated with you:
20. Accounts whose tone you admire (not necessarily same industry):

Template: Positioning worksheet

Fill this in from the intake answers. Every post, bio, and pitch gets checked against this page.

1. One-line positioning

I/We [do what] for [specific audience] who [need / desire], and what makes us different is [point of difference].

Test: could a competitor say exactly the same sentence? If yes, sharpen the point of difference.

2. Short versions

- Bio line (≤150 characters): _____
- Tagline (≤7 words): _____
- Intro you'd say out loud (1 sentence): _____

3. Content pillars (3–4)

PILLAR	WHY THE AUDIENCE CARES	3 POST IDEAS	SHARE
			%
			%
			%
			%

4. Voice rules

WE ARE	WE ARE NOT

Words we use: __ Words we never use: ____ Emoji policy: none / light / expressive Hashtag policy: 0–3 specific tags (big generic tags don't help small accounts)

5. The one action

Every profile, link, and call to action points to: _____ (newsletter / shop / booking page / contact).

6. Platform decision

- Main: __ (because ____)
- Second (start in week 8+): _____
- Claimed but not used yet: _____

Template: Profile setup checklist

Week 1: Claim & protect

- [] Pick the handle and check it on Instagram, TikTok, LinkedIn, X, Threads, YouTube, Pinterest, and Substack
- [] Claim it on all of them, even unused ones (stops impersonators and keeps it for later)
- [] Domain (`name.com` / `brand.co`) bought, even if it only redirects for now
- [] Professional email on that domain
- [] Two-factor authentication on every account (use an authenticator app, not SMS, where offered)
- [] Logins stored in a password manager. Clients keep ownership of their own accounts; you get delegated access (Meta Business Suite, LinkedIn page admin, etc.) wherever the platform supports it
- [] Brands: business/professional account type switched on (unlocks analytics)

Week 2: Dress the profiles

- [] Profile photo / logo (same image everywhere)
- [] Banner/cover where the platform has one
- [] Bio from the positioning worksheet, adapted to each platform's character limit
- [] One link → link hub or owned page, tested on a phone
- [] Highlights / pinned posts / Featured section set up
- [] Contact option (email button, booking link, or "DM me for...")
- [] Brands: Google Business Profile (if there's a physical location or local service area)

Week 2: Bank content before launch

- [] 9 posts published or scheduled (an Instagram grid of 3×3 looks complete)
- 3 × introduction / who we are / why
- 3 × pillar content
- 3 × proof (work, product, testimonial, credential)
- [] 2 weeks of further posts drafted
- [] Scheduling tool connected (Buffer, Later, Metricool, or native schedulers)
- [] Lead magnet or offer live (free chapter, discount, guide, booking)

Launch day

- [] Announce to existing network: personal accounts, email, WhatsApp/close friends
- [] Ask 10 people personally to follow and engage with the first posts
- [] Block 30 min to reply to every comment in the first 2 hours

Template: 30-day content calendar

DAY	FOCUS	WRITER	BRAND	CEO
1	Launch	Intro post: who I am + what I write + why	Launch post: what we make, for whom, why we exist	Hook post: the belief that made me start the company
2	Engage	20 min commenting on genre writers & readers	Reply to every launch comment; comment on 10 customer accounts	15 min thoughtful comments on 10 target people

Every review, answer these

1. Top 3 posts by saves/shares. What do they have in common? → Make more like them.
2. Bottom 3 posts. Kill that format or fix the hook?
3. Did we post what we planned? If not, the plan is too big. Cut it, don't feel guilty about it.
4. One thing to try for the next 2 weeks: _____

Decision rules

- A format that performs best 3 reviews in a row → make it the weekly signature.
- A pillar that performs worst 3 reviews in a row → cut it or reshape it.
- Lots of reach but no link clicks → the bio or the offer is the problem, not the content.
- Followers growing but the result metric flat → wrong audience. Go back to the positioning worksheet.

Selling this as a service

If you run this kit for clients, here's how to package it so it pays and stays deliverable.

Prices below are planning ranges, not market research. Rates vary a lot by country, niche, and track record. Test them with your first 3 clients and adjust. If you're new, price toward the low end in exchange for a testimonial and permission to share results.

Three packages

PACKAGE	WHAT THE CLIENT GETS	YOUR TIME (EST.)	STARTING PRICE RANGE
1. Presence Setup (one-off, 2 weeks)	Intake call, positioning worksheet, handles claimed and secured, profiles fully set up on 1–2 platforms, bio + link hub, 9 launch posts, 30-day calendar	10–15 hrs	$400–1,500
2. Launch & Coach (setup + 90 days)	Package 1, plus fortnightly scorecard reviews, feedback on their posts, and a monthly strategy call. The client posts themselves.	Setup + ~3 hrs/month	$1,200–3,500 total
3. Done-for-you (monthly retainer, 3-month minimum)	Package 1, plus you write and schedule 12–16 posts/month, monthly report. CEOs: ghostwriting from a weekly 30-min interview.	10–20 hrs/month	$800–3,000+/month

Who fits which: - Writers usually buy Package 1 or 2. They have smaller budgets and the voice must be theirs. - Brands usually buy Package 3 once they have sales. Package 1 before that. - CEOs buy Package 3 (ghostwriting). They have the least time and the highest value per opportunity.

What you never promise

- A follower number. Promise deliverables and a process, and report the result metric honestly.
- "Going viral."
- Results from platforms changing their rules overnight. Put a sentence in the contract.

Contract must-haves (one page is fine)

1. Scope: platforms, number of posts, number of revisions, response times.
2. The client owns their accounts, content, and passwords. You get delegated access, which is revoked at the end.
3. Approval: nothing posts without client approval (essential for CEOs).
4. Payment: 50% upfront for setup, retainers paid monthly in advance.
5. Notice period: 30 days.
6. Confidentiality, especially for CEO clients.

Your own presence (do this first)

You're selling presence, so yours is the portfolio. - Run the CEO playbook on yourself on LinkedIn, plus Instagram if your clients are creators and brands. - Document each client's 90 days as a case study (with permission): before/after profile screenshots, the scorecard, a client quote. - Three case studies make selling much easier.

Client pipeline: first 90 days

1. Weeks 1–2: set up your own profiles with this kit; post 3×/week.
2. Weeks 2–4: offer Package 1 at a founding rate to 5 people in your network (one writer, one brand, one CEO if possible) in exchange for a testimonial.
3. Weeks 4–12: post their results (anonymised if needed), and ask every happy client for one referral.
4. Raise prices once you're booked out for 3 weeks in a row.
